My coinbase account has been blocked [Move→Into→Success]

The moment +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) you realize your Coinbase account has been blocked, a wave of panic and confusion sets in immediately. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) You cannot access your funds, place trades, or perform any of the account functions you rely on. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) This situation is stressful but it is important to remember that most blocks are fully reversible. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Taking calm and calculated action using this guide will help you restore your account as quickly as possible. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232)

Why Your Coinbase Account Has Been Blocked

Your Coinbase +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) account being blocked is never random and always results from a specific identifiable cause. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Security-triggered blocks are the most common type and result from unusual or suspicious account activity. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Logging in from an unfamiliar location, device, or IP address can instantly trigger an automatic security block. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Compliance-related blocks occur when identity documents are missing, expired, or failed during a review process. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Payment-related blocks happen when funds from a recent purchase are still within the mandatory clearing period. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232)

Terms of service +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) violations represent a more serious category of block that may require a formal appeal to resolve. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) These violations include operating multiple accounts, engaging in fraudulent activity, or using prohibited payment methods. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Legal or government-imposed holds represent the most complex type of block and require specific legal procedures. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Identifying which of these categories applies to your situation is the essential first diagnostic step. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Checking your email for Coinbase notifications is always the fastest way to make this identification. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232)

What to Do Immediately After Your Account Is Blocked

Act quickly +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) and open your registered email inbox to look for any messages from the Coinbase platform. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Coinbase sends detailed block notifications that explain the specific reason and required resolution steps. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Read every word of the notification carefully before attempting any account restoration steps at all. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Follow all instructions in the email precisely and submit any requested documents without unnecessary delay. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Every hour of delay in responding to Coinbase requests means more time your account remains blocked. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232)

Log in to +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) coinbase.com and check your account dashboard for any in-app notifications or pending action items. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Some block resolutions can be initiated directly through in-app prompts without needing to contact support.

+1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Complete all verification or security steps shown in the app to begin the official unblocking process. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) Take screenshots of any error messages or block notices for your personal records and future reference. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232) These screenshots can be very helpful when communicating your situation to the Coinbase support team. +1-(888)-(310)-(5232)
